THE BULLOCK PRESIDENCY

Series Bible — Document 08: The Kids' Schools

Guiding choice: Marc and Amond send their kids to public schools. It fits how the kids are being raised (as Millennials: landlines, outside play, no tablets at dinner), and it fits Marc's Universal Education agenda. A candidate who runs on public education and sends his daughters to public school is on-brand and hard to attack. It also has real presidential precedent: Amy Carter attended D.C. public schools while her father was President (1977–1981).

1. Right Now: Los Angeles (2022–2025)

Child	School year (grade)	School	Notes
Emma & Victoria (b. May 10, 2012)	2022–23 (5th)	Roscomare Road Elementary (LAUSD), Bel Air	The neighborhood public school a few minutes from Sunrise Hill. Their last year of elementary when the story opens.
Emma & Victoria	2023–24 (6th) and fall 2024 (7th)	Paul Revere Charter Middle School (LAUSD), Brentwood	Public middle school on Sunset Boulevard. A Secret Service presence on campus starting Feb 2024 (the detail granted Feb 9, 2024).
Lyric Baker (b. Apr 20, 2014)	2022–23 (3rd) through fall 2024 (5th)	Windsor Hills Math, Science & Aerospace Magnet (LAUSD), Windsor Hills	Already canon: "Lyric's school in Windsor Hills" (Ch. 3). A public magnet near the Bakers' home in View Park, and the source of the 30 third-graders at her birthday party.

2. If Marc Wins: Washington, D.C. (from January 2025)

Move date: the family moves into the White House after the inauguration (Mon Jan 20, 2025). The girls start D.C. schools on Monday, January 27, 2025, mid-year, exactly as the Obama girls did in January 2009. Lyric moves too: Amond, as Vice President, lives at the official residence at the Naval Observatory on Massachusetts Avenue.

Child	Years	School (D.C. Public Schools)	Notes
Emma & Victoria	Jan 2025 – Jun 2026 (7th–8th)	Alice Deal Middle School, Tenleytown	One of D.C.'s best-known public middle schools, in Northwest D.C.
Emma & Victoria	2026–2030 (9th–12th)	Jackson-Reed High School, Tenleytown	D.C.'s largest public high school (renamed from Woodrow Wilson High in 2022). They graduate in June 2030, and both turn 18 on Fri May 10, 2030, weeks before graduation.
Lyric Baker	Jan – Jun 2025 (5th)	Stoddert Elementary School, Glover Park	A neighborhood elementary near the Naval Observatory.
Lyric Baker	2025–2028 (6th–8th)	Alice Deal Middle School	Overlaps with the twins for one year (2025–26: twins in 8th, Lyric in 6th).
Lyric Baker	2028–2032 (9th–12th)	Jackson-Reed High School	Graduates in June 2032, months before The Blinding (Sep 13, 2032), when she'll be weeks into college.

Story license: exact D.C. school attendance boundaries for the White House and the Naval Observatory are simplified for the story.

3. College (per the locked timeline)

- Emma & Victoria: 2030–2034. Which colleges is an open story thread, decided on-page in their senior year (2029–30), in Marc's second term. They may choose different schools, the twins' first real separation.
- Lyric: 2032–2036. Chosen in 2031–32. She starts in fall 2032, in the shadow of the war.

4. Story Engines

- Opposition (not nerfed): critics call it a stunt ("Secret Service agents in a public middle school hallway"). Parents' groups complain about security disruption. Fox segments debate whether First Children belong in public schools. Marc's answer: "If it's good enough for every other kid in D.C., it's good enough for mine. And if it isn't good enough, that's my job to fix."
- The Smilleys: Cornelius quietly believes the girls belong at Sidwell Friends, as Washington power families send their children there. Lorraine and Odessa side with Marc and Esther.
- Normal-kid moments: lunch tables, science fairs, school dances, and the twins' first boyfriend or girlfriend storylines, all under a federal protective detail.
- Lyric and the twins in the same building again (2025–26), a set piece of its own.
- The alternative (if the author prefers it): Sidwell Friends School, the Quaker private school attended by Chelsea Clinton, the Obama daughters, and Biden grandchildren. Its Middle School (grades 5–8) is in D.C., so all three kids could be on one campus from January 2025.
